

Marek Kimmel (Rice University, USA)

Statistical Inference of growth and mutation patterns of tumors based on genomic data

Abstract: We present a mathematical model of growth and evolution of secondary clones in cancer cell populations, based on the coalescence theory. Using the model, we describe difficulties in reconstructing past demography of tumors. Considerations are illustrated by analysis of site frequency spectra of tumors from The Cancer Genome Atlas.

Collaboration of Khanh Dinh, Roman Jaksik, Amaury Lambert and Simon Tavaré is acknowledged (Statistical Science, in press, available in Biorxiv)