

Counting triply-periodic tangles

Myfanwy Evans
TU Berlin

Using periodic surfaces as a scaffold is a convenient route to making periodic entanglements. I will present a systematic way of building new tangled periodic structures, using low-dimensional topology and combinatorics, posing the question of how to characterise the structures more completely. I will also give an insight into applications of these structures.