

Nematic liquid crystal-colloidal interaction

Arnab Roy

Basque Center for Applied Mathematics, Bilbao, Spain, Alameda Mazarredo, 14, Bilbao, 48009, Spain
royarnab244@gmail.com

Abstract: In this talk, we discuss the mathematical model describing the movement of colloidal particles in a nematic-fluid flow. We model the colloidal particles as rigid balls. Due to the motion of the rigid bodies, the time variation of the fluid domain is not known a priori. We have established the existence of at least one weak solution to such a model in two dimensional space.