

Design of nematic liquid crystals through colloidal homogenisation

Arghir Dani Zarnescu

University,

Basque Center for Applied Mathematics, Bilbao, Spain and “Simion Stoilow” Institute of Mathematics, Bucharest, Romania

address,

Alameda Mazarredo, 14, Bilbao, 48009, Spain

azarnescu@bcamath.org

We consider the Landau-de Gennes framework for describing nematics and focus on the case in which the liquid crystal material is periodically doped with colloidal insertions. We study the homogenised materials obtained in the limit of small period and show that it is possible to design parts of the limit in an apriori chosen manner tuning various parameters of the system.