

This talk will go over the basic rules and motivations for Differential Linear Logic. We will recall quickly the exponential rules of Linear Logic and explore the so-called co-structural rules allowing for differentiation of proofs. We will motivate these rules with an informal semantics in terms of linear or differentiable functions. We will see how the cut-elimination rules of Differential Linear Logic take their inspiration from basic analysis calculus.