

Parameter Estimation with Integral Elimination

Louis Roussel

In this talk, we investigate the interest of using nonlinear integral equations instead of non-linear differential equations in a modelisation context. In particular, we compare the quality of parameter estimation on an academic example using different input-output differential and integral equations. Finally, we will present examples treated with our integral elimination prototype.

Keywords: parameter estimation, input-output equations, integral elimination